

Register of Interests for GPhC Associates and Partners

Guidance and form

1.0 Introduction

1.1 The Council recognises that the management of potential conflicts of interest is an essential component of good governance. The GPhC's associates and partners are required to register relevant interests and to declare such interests when appropriate so that those conducting business are aware of them.

2.0 Purpose

2.1 This document is designed to give guidance on what interests should be declared by associates and partners relating to them, or those close to them that could influence, or be seen to influence, their objectivity when making decisions on behalf of the GPhC. Associates and partners must also declare any paid employment or relevant voluntary activity. Associates and partners should err on the side of caution and declare any interests if they are unsure of their relevance.

2.2 We are now also using this form to gather information on relevant professional registration (if any) and currency of practice. As well as ensuring compliance with the requirements of our Rules, this will help us to get a better understanding for the range of skills, sector knowledge and experience that we have available to us across our various associate and partner groups.

3.0 Guidance for associates on the declaration of interests

3.1 You should declare, on the attached form (appendix A), any interests, financial or otherwise, that you, or those close to you, have that could influence, or be seen to influence, decisions that you may take on behalf of the GPhC. If you are in any doubt as to whether or not something represents an interest, you should declare it. You should also declare any activity for which you are paid whether or not the activity relates to the GPhC.

4.0 Conflicts of interest

4.1 There is no explicit exclusion on any specific conflict of interest, for the simple reason that no list could cover all eventualities and would begin to be out of date as soon as it was approved, so we consider it more appropriate to consider potential conflicts on a case-by-case basis. We take as our starting point the provision in the Council Member and Associate Code of Conduct that states: "Members and associates must demonstrate their duty to the public, unconflicted by loyalties to other organisations, to staff or any personal interest". There are no absolute proscriptions, and conflicts will be considered on a case by case basis, but certain combinations, such as, for example, statutory committee members who are also office holders or employees of relevant registrant representative organisations, would normally be considered to face an irreconcilable conflict of interest.

5.0 Keeping the register up to date

5.1 Every year associates and partners will be asked to update their declaration of interests by completing and returning the form we will send them, including a nil return if appropriate.

In the meantime, if you obtain, or realise that you have another interest, you should let the office know straight away, without waiting for the next form to be sent to you.

E. Professional registration and currency of practice

If you are registered with a relevant profession (for example, registration as a pharmacist/pharmacy technician; legal or medical qualification/certificate of practice), please tell us what it is, and whether your registration is up to date. As well as ensuring compliance with the requirements of our Rules (in some cases, your position will require you to have a current professional registration - for example, if you hold the position of a registrant member or a legally qualified chair on a statutory committee), this will help us to get a better understanding of the range of skills, sector knowledge and experience that we have available to us across our various associate and partner groups.

(For those associate groups whose registers of interests are published on our website, as a requirement of the Pharmacy Order 2010):

Please note that the information gathered in this section will NOT be included in what is published on our website.
